THE IRISH PUB is an embodiment of Irish tradition — an ambassador of a vibrant, living culture. Good beer, good music and hearty food combine with ‘Craic’ (an indefinable, uniquely Irish sense of fun) to create a sense of welcome and belonging that exudes from the very woodwork. The pub is a homey kind of place, full of warmth and generosity that is intrinsically Irish.

“It is our goal to give our guests a true cultural experience,” says Nick Hirt, owner of The Black Rose. For nearly five years, The Black Rose has been delivering a little piece of Ireland to downtown Grand Rapids. It features traditional Irish fare with a modern twist. From the signature Guinness-battered fish and chips to the homemade corned beef and cabbage, there is no doubt that this is a true Irish experience. Along with the best selection of Irish beers and spirits this side of the pond, The Black Rose also serves up an extensive menu including sandwiches and desserts. Enjoy lunch or make a night out of it and experience what makes The Black Rose a true Irish Pub.

The Black Rose merges the Irish culture with the conveniences and nuances of its adopted home in Grand Rapids. It is a place to meet a business client, join your friends for a “session,” a scrumptious meal, or simply relax with a pint and a good book. It is a modern-day haven in a traditional setting, where bustle melts away and the serious business of pleasure begins. 🍷
